

Global meltdown

A tipping point is the place of no return. This map shows the risk of different tipping points being passed this century if global warming continues at 3-5C

